Aim

Facilitate the creation of sustainable human settlements and the improvement to household quality of life.

2014 national macro organisation of the state

In accordance with the reorganisation of some national departments announced by the President in May 2014, the sanitation function that was previously the responsibility of the Department of Human Settlements is transferred to the new Department of Water and Sanitation, with effect from 1 October 2014.

The function carries with it two grants: the rural household infrastructure grant (direct and indirect); and the human settlements development grant, which is an indirect grant for bucket eradication.

Changes to programme purpose and objectives

Programme 3: Programme Delivery Support

The purpose and objectives of the Programme Delivery Support programme stays the same, except for the removal of the sanitation function, which has been transferred to the Department of Water and Sanitation.

2. Data for this performance indicator is unavailable at present.

Changes to indicators and targets published in the 2014 ENE

Performance indicators and targets for the number of additional households provided with on-site sanitation in rural areas per year and the number of additional bucket sanitation systems removed from households per year will no longer be measured by the Department of Human Settlements, following the transfer of the sanitation function to the Department of Water and Sanitation.

Mid-year progress

In the first quarter of 2014/15, no new municipalities were assessed for level 2 accreditation as a result of the executive decision to place the accreditation process on hold. In addition, performance has been slow in relation to the number of additional sites serviced in greenfields development, additional sites upgraded in brownfield developments, the number of informal settlements upgraded, and the number of residential units that have been completed. This is largely due to the higher cost of delivery arising from the higher subsidy quantum for sites serviced and housing units, as well as planning problems in provincial human settlements departments. This raises the concern that targets for the year will not be met. The slow progress in distributing subsidies related to the People's Housing Process is largely related to the fact that this is a demand driven subsidy and is reliant on beneficiary applications.

In the first six months of 2014/15, 41 municipalities were provided with, or are in the process of being provided with technical assistance for informal settlement upgrading through the national upgrading support programme. 748 informal settlement upgrading plans were completed or are nearing completion, resulting in an overachievement on this target to date. This is primarily as a result of the new indicator target being too modest. The data to determine the number of houses per hectare of land in integrated development projects is unavailable at present as the indicator is new, and new projects with denser development may take time to be completed.

This was mainly due to increased transfers of the urban settlements development grant to metropolitan municipalities, as well as an increase in transfers to the National Housing Finance Corporation, compared to the same period in the previous year.

Revenue trends for the first half of 2014/15

Revenue in the first six months of 2014/15 was R618 000, or 54.2 per cent of the adjusted revenue estimate of R1.141 million for the year. In comparison, mid-year revenue in 2013/14 was R6.278 million, or 95.4 per cent of the 2013/14 adjusted estimate. Compared to the first six months of 2013/14, revenue over the same period in 2014/15 decreased by R5.660 million, or 90.2 per cent. This was mainly because there was an overstatement of revenue in the first six months of 2013/14 and as a result, total revenue was R763 000, or 11.6 per cent of the adjusted estimate for 2013/14. Revenue for the first six months of 2014/15 is largely as a result of interest on debt accrued from suppliers and staff, and costs recovered from staff for various items such as unearned leave gratuities.
