

Introduction

The Estimates of National Expenditure (ENE) is a tool to enhance the accountability of the executive to Parliament and civil society, and to allow for the review and monitoring of government's service delivery and spending plans. By providing information that links service delivery to budgets, the ENE deepens the quality of trusteeship over public funds allocated for government programmes.

In modernising public finance management and reporting, changes have been made to the format of the 2008 ENE in line with the government-wide monitoring and evaluation programme, specifically the Framework for Managing Programme Performance Information, a detailed guideline for departments on the use of performance information. Chapters now include more detailed objectives and measures as well as reorganised trendable performance indicators. Performance indicators have been introduced for public entities. Each chapter now also contains information regarding the budget items on which a department will be effecting efficiency savings.

Value for money

Medium term budgeting is about maintaining alignment between strategic prioritisation of policy, planning for implementation and finalising spending plans in support of government's objectives. In the decision-making regarding the composition of the budget, value for money is a key aim - in order to achieve as much service delivery as possible.

During the budget process value for money was considered. First, there was increased scrutiny in determining budget allocations. Treasury budget analysts examined departmental budget requests carefully in light of government objectives, feasibility of implementation plans and costing, departmental capacity, including human capacity, and considered the balance between the competing demands of long term planning and investment and the need for accelerated service delivery in the short term. Extensive consultation was undertaken with departments and intergovernmental forums before proposals were presented to the Ministers' Committee on the Budget¹ and ultimately tabled in Cabinet.

Further, efficiency savings on excessive budget items are required of all departments over the medium term to institutionalise efficiency and economy as ongoing financial management responsibilities in government. Co-ordination among government departments and spheres in respect of relevant programmes was also considered in attaining value for money. So were reforms in relation to enhancing departmental performance.

Performance Information

To increase the transparency of government spending in relation to performance in the attainment of objectives, chapters in the 2008 ENE provide detailed objectives and measures per vote programme as well as a selection of performance indicators per vote and for public entities. This endeavour is part of broader reforms aimed at developing a more results-oriented budgeting structure linking the use of resources to performance. Targeted indicators and interventions will assist in measuring progress in achieving government's objectives. Over time, this information will increasingly be used to inform decisions on the allocation of resources.

In particular, the Treasury asked national departments to submit between one and five quantifiable objectives for each vote programme, including an explanation of strategic intent, specific interventions and measurements such as targeted timeframes for achieving objectives. In addition, departments were asked to identify selected performance indicators for the vote presented in a quantitative and trendable format.

Additional allocations

Following the tabling of the 2007 Budget, government reviewed its policies and spending programmes as part of the budget process. This resulted in the allocation of an additional R115.6 billion to take forward key priorities over the next three years. The revised national budget framework provides for total additional spending by national departments of R13.4 billion in 2008/09, R17.4 billion in 2009/10 and R24.8 billion in 2010/11. In total this amounts to R55.6 billion, or 48 per cent of new money.

A summary of the additional funding is provided below by national department. However, it excludes all direct charges on the National Revenue Fund and understandably the provincial equitable share amount, but adjustments to provincial and local conditional grants have been included. Further, only departments that receive an allocation in excess of R1 billion are mentioned. The total amounts per department in the discussion below represent the net allocations after the deduction of efficiency savings, baseline reprioritisation savings and foreign exchange rate gains relative to those that were forecast.

Central Government and Financial and Administrative Services

The increase to the budget of the Department of Foreign Affairs for the MTEF period totals R1.1 billion, largely to accommodate: the construction of the Pan African Parliament building (R717 million) and hosting the Parliament, increases in foreign representation, funding for new projects through the African Renaissance and International Co-operation Fund, refurbishing foreign missions, hosting the diaspora conference, chairing the Southern African Development Community, and implementing the revised foreign service dispensation.

The Department of Home Affairs receives R2 billion in additional allocations. Provisions are for specific interventions as part of the department's turnaround strategy: the new customer service centre (R262 million), IT readiness and IT capacity to handle permit and visa applications closer to 2010 (R830 million), the improvement of facilities (R36 million), and the new passport system (R130 million). Allocations include funding for the Electoral Commission (R438 million) and the Government Printing Works (R288.6 million).

Most of National Treasury's total addition to baseline goes towards transfer payments. These include R2.7 billion for the infrastructure grant for provinces, R280 million for the local government financial management grant, R1.2 billion for the South African Revenue Service, and R381 million for the Secret Services.

Social Services

The Department of Social Development receives the largest portion of additional funding within this cluster, as well as the largest allocation to a single department. The R12.4 billion allocation provides for R5.8 billion in inflation adjustments to social assistance grants to retain their purchasing power, R6.2 billion for moving towards equalisation of the pensionable age at 60 and adjusting the means tests for social assistance grants, and R30 million to establish an appeals tribunal in terms of the South African Social Security Agency and Social Assistance acts (2004).

The 2008 Budget provides additional allocations over the MTEF period of R3.4 billion to the Department of Education, mainly for higher education (R1.4 billion), support for the expansion of Grade R and Early Childhood Development (R40 million), and support for the expansion of inclusive education (R27 million). The national school nutrition programme conditional grant receives an increase of R1.8 billion.

The Department of Health is allocated an additional R5.4 billion, mainly comprised of R2 billion for hospital revitalisation, R2.1 billion to expand coverage of the comprehensive HIV and Aids plan and to strengthen prevention programmes, and R1.1 billion to strengthen tertiary health services.

For the 2010 FIFA World Cup stadiums development conditional grant, the Department of Sport and Recreation receives R1.2 billion over the MTEF period. It also receives R684 million for the 2010 FIFA World Cup host city operational grant. The total allocation to the department is R1.9 billion.

Justice, Crime Prevention and Security Services

The largest of the revisions in the justice, crime prevention and security services cluster, totalling R6.5 billion, is made to the Department of Safety and Security. R530 million is for the appointment of more police officials in 2010/11. The department is also continuing with preparations for the security requirements for the 2010 FIFA World Cup (R640 million). In support of this, additional allocations will also allow for the replacement of the equipment used in the forensic science laboratories (R250 million), and for upgrading the hosting and network infrastructure of the SAPS (R1.3 billion).

R2.9 billion is added to the baseline of the Department of Correctional Services, mostly to provide for additional accommodation for offenders. R1.7 billion is available for the provision of additional bed spaces through the construction of five public private partnership correctional centres, and R300 million for staffing the new Kimberley correctional centre currently under construction. R513 million was allocated in the 2007 Adjusted Estimates of National Expenditure to complete this construction.

The Department of Defence is allocated R3.3 billion, R700 million for the military skills development programme, R500 million for the general modernisation of defence equipment and R200 million for the improvement of defence infrastructure.

Economic Services and Infrastructure

This cluster of departments receives the biggest overall allocation, amounting to R32.6 billion. The biggest allocation in the cluster goes to the Department of Provincial and Local Government. The R10.3 billion allocation is mainly to support increasing the local government equitable share (R6.5 billion) and also provides for the programme of support for institutions of traditional leadership (R33.5 million).

The Department of Transport also receives a relatively large allocation, of R6.1 billion. In 2010/11 additional allocations of R2 billion for public transport infrastructure and systems as well as R830 million for the strengthening of national roads make up a sizeable share of the funding. Over the MTEF period, R1.4 billion is provided for the incorporation of Shosholoza Meyl into the South African Rail Commuter Corporation (SARCC). The SARCC also receives an additional R1.1 billion for rolling stock upgrade and overhaul and for signalling on priority regional networks. R478 million over the MTEF period is provided for the taxi recapitalisation project and the development of a performance based contract model for buses.

The increase to the budget of the Department of Environmental Affairs and Tourism totals R1.6 billion: R750 million is for expanded public works programmes and other second economy interventions, R600 million is for the acquisition of a polar research vessel, replacing the SA Agulhas, and R110 million is for improved environmental management across government.

The Department of Housing's budget is dominated by transfer payments. In the 2008 Budget an additional R200 million in 2009/10 and R2 billion in 2010/11 have been added to the integrated housing and human settlement conditional grant to provide for informal settlement upgrading, and to align the grant with input price increases.

R2.1 billion is allocated to the Department of Land Affairs over the MTEF period. R1 billion in total for 2008/09 and 2009/10 is allocated to settle the remaining 5 083 restitution claims. As this programme nears completion, land reform is stepped up with R900 million provided in total for 2009/10 and 2010/11.

Transfers to state owned enterprises are a very significant component in the budget of the Department of Public Enterprises. The department receives R5.1 billion over the MTEF period, of which R3.5 billion is allocated to the Pebble Bed Modular Reactor project alone. R727 million goes to Broadband Infraco for further investment in undersea cables, which will significantly reduce telecommunications costs in South Africa. R585 million goes to South African Express Airways to enable ownership of the airline to be transferred from Transnet to the state.

R2.5 billion is added to the baseline of the Department of Trade and Industry. An allocation of R2.3 billion supports the industrial development initiatives flowing from the national industrial policy framework. This includes investment in industrial development zones amounting to R500 million. Other additional amounts have been allocated for broadening participation in the economy, including for small enterprise development (R90 million) and improving competition regulation (R90 million).

Overview of expenditure

The main budget provides for total expenditure of R611.1 billion in 2008/09, increasing to R744.7 billion in 2010/11. Real non-interest expenditure continues to grow strongly at a rate of 6.8 per cent over the MTEF period. The estimates also include a contingency reserve to deal with unanticipated circumstances, which provides for allocations that may be voted in the Adjusted Estimates of National Expenditure later in the financial year. In adjustments budgets, any unused funds in the contingency reserve may be drawn down to provide for expenditure that is currently unforeseen and that is unavoidable, accommodate adverse macroeconomic developments, make funds available following natural or other disasters, or respond to any new government priorities.

How all funds are allocated in this main budget is detailed in the pages of this publication, with a consolidated account provided in the summary tables.
