DRAFT

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE TAX ADMINISTRATION AMENDMENT BILL, 2012

1. PURPOSE OF BILL

The Bill provides for the enactment into law of an international agreement contemplated in terms of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, amends administrative provisions of the Estate Duty Act, 1955 (Act No. 45 of 1955), the Income Tax Act, 1962 (Act No. 58 of 1962), the Customs and Excise Act, 1964 (Act No. 91 of 1964), the Unemployment Insurance Contributions Act, 2002 (Act No. 4 of 2002), the Mineral and Petroleum Resources Royalty (Administration) Act, 2008 (Act No. 29 of 2008), the Taxation Laws Second Amendment Act, 2011 (Act No. 25 of 2011) and the Tax Administration Act, 2011 (Act No. 28 of 2011).

2. OBJECTS OF BILL

2.1. Enactment into law of an international agreement contemplated in section 231 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996

The Republic of South Africa and the Republic of Mozambique have entered into an agreement on combined border control posts on the Mozambique-South African Border. The aim of the agreement is to provide for the implementation of one-stop border posts between South Africa and Mozambique, which as defined in the agreement, means “the joint control and management of border crossing activities by officers of the Parties, using shared facilities.” The agreement provides for the adoption of annexes as necessary to facilitate implementation of the agreement. Presently, three annexes have been adopted. These annexes enter into force after approval by the Parties in accordance with their constitutional requirements and form an integral part of the agreement. The South African Revenue Service and other organs of state must implement and administer the agreement and it is accordingly necessary that the agreement should be enacted into law. The proposed amendment comes into operation on a date published in the Gazette.

2.2. Estate Duty Act: Amendment of section 10

The payment of interest across all tax types is now regulated by Chapter 12 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011. The proposed amendment aligns interest due in terms of the Estate Duty Act, 1955, with Chapter 12 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.3. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 1

The proposed amendment is of a textual nature.

2.4. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 61

The proposed amendment is of a textual nature consequential to the amendment of the definition of ‘representative taxpayer’ in paragraph 3 above.

2.5. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64FA

There currently exists a problem in that something other than a change of the beneficial ownership could affect whether the beneficial owner remains exempt from the dividends tax. For example, a

DRAFT

PBO, a pension fund or a micro business could lose their status as such, or a non-resident could become a resident (section 64F(j)), and hence lose their exempt status without a change in beneficial ownership.

A similar problem arises under the reduced rate scenario as the applicable rate could change without a change in beneficial ownership. For example, a change of residency of the beneficial owner (becomes a resident in another state with a different maximum rate applicable – for example moves from the UK (5%) to the Netherlands (15%)), or the beneficial owner reduces its holding in the SA company and no longer qualifies for a reduced rate in terms of the DTA.

All the foregoing examples do not involve a change in ownership but still affects either the exemption or the rate applicable.

The above issue would arise in the following sections:

| Exempt | Reduced rate |
|----------------|--------------|
| 64FA(1)(a)(ii) | 64FA(2)(b) |
| 64G(2)(a)(bb) | 64G(3)(ii) |
| 64H(2)(a)(bb) | 64H(3)(ii) |

It is therefore proposed that the listed sections be amended to also refer to a change in the circumstances of the beneficial owner in addition to a change in beneficial ownership.

2.6. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64G

See the notes on paragraph 2.5 above.

2.7. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64H

See the notes on paragraph 2.5 above.

2.8. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64K

The submission of returns is linked to payments of dividends tax to the Commissioner only. Where no payment of tax is required, but a payment of a dividend occurred, there is no requirement to submit a return.

The above can be illustrated by the following examples:

Example 1: A listed company declares and pays a dividend, and transfers the administration to a “regulated intermediary” and hence the liability to withhold dividends tax is also transferred to the latter. The company has no obligation to submit a return to this effect to the Commissioner.

Example 2: A regulated intermediary facilitates the payment of a dividend on behalf of a listed company, and withholds the correct amount due, but due to claims for refunds on earlier dividends facilitated on behalf of other companies (see section 64K(1)(c)), there is nothing left and it need not make payment to the Commissioner, and hence need not submit a return to this effect to the Commissioner.

DRAFT

As can be seen from the above examples it will be impossible to properly administer the tax as a complete picture of the dividend flows through the chain (from the originating company through various levels of regulated intermediaries to the eventual beneficial owner) will not be available.

It is proposed that the submission of a return be linked to the payment of a dividend instead of to the payment of tax, by amending section 64K(1)(d) accordingly.

2.9. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64L

Paragraph (a):

Section 64L (refunds by companies) make provision for refunds only where a late declaration is submitted (i.e. no withholding or reduced rate withholding). Assume that a rebate is not allowed for some reason and the full dividends tax is withheld and later proof is submitted that a qualifying foreign tax was withheld and should have reduced the dividend tax it cannot be claimed in terms of section 64L. The proposed amendments provide that a late rebate can be claimed if claimed within three years from the payment of the relevant dividend.

Paragraph (b):

In order for a company or regulated intermediary to withhold either nothing or at a reduced rate, the beneficial owner has to submit both a declaration and a written undertaking. If he fails to do so at the required time and more is withheld he only needs to submit the declaration in order to get a refund (see sections 64L(1)(c)). In other words less strict requirements apply when the taxpayer is delinquent than when the taxpayer is compliant.

This written undertaking is a document between the taxpayer and the collections agent, and SARS is not directly involved, and it may be argued that it is not important. However, if SARS requires the undertaking in the normal course of business SARS would also require it when the taxpayer is in default (especially since it could lead to a recovery claim from SARS under a section 64L scenario).

It is proposed that section 64L(1)(c) be amended to require submission of both the declaration and the written undertaking.

Paragraph (c):

The proposed amendments are consequential to the insertion of the new subsection (1A).

Clause 2.10. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64M

Paragraph (a):

Section 64M (refunds by regulated intermediaries) make provision for refunds only where a late declaration is submitted (i.e. no withholding or reduced rate withholding). Assume that a rebate is not allowed for some reason and the full dividends tax is withheld and later proof is submitted that a qualifying foreign tax was withheld and should have reduced the dividend tax it cannot be claimed in terms of section 64M. The proposed amendments provide that a late rebate can be claimed if claimed within three years from the payment of the relevant dividend.

Paragraph (b):

In order for a regulated intermediary to withhold either nothing or at a reduced rate, the beneficial owner has to submit both a declaration and a written undertaking. If he fails to do so at the required time and more is withheld he only needs to submit the declaration in order to get a refund (see section 64M(1)(c)). In other words less strict requirements apply when the taxpayer is delinquent than when the taxpayer is compliant.

This written undertaking is a document between the taxpayer and the collections agent, and SARS is not directly involved, and it may be argued that it is not important. However, if SARS requires the undertaking in the normal course of business SARS would also require it when the taxpayer is in default (especially since it could lead to a recovery claim from SARS under a section 64M scenario).

It is proposed that section 64M(1)(c) be amended to require submission of both the declaration and the written undertaking.

Paragraph (c):

The proposed amendments are consequential to the insertion of the new subsection (1A).

Clause 2.11. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of section 64N

The proposed amendment, amends section 64N(5) in order to require a company or regulated intermediary to obtain proof of the foreign tax paid and deducted from dividends tax payable in the prescribed form and manner, to enable SARS to verify it.

Clause 2.12. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 2 of Fourth Schedule

Paragraph (a):

A new section 7B is proposed to be inserted in the Income Tax Act, 1962, by means of the Taxation Laws Amendment Bill, 2012. The new section provides for the date of accrual of “variable remuneration” to be the date on which the remuneration is paid to the relevant employee. The proposed amendment in this Bill stipulates that deduction or withholding of employees’ tax by the employer should take place on the same date.

Paragraphs (b) and (c):

A proposed amendment in the Taxation Laws Amendment Bill, 2012, will remove persons of 65 years and older from the current provisions of section 18 of the Income Tax Act, 1962, and place them under the provisions of section 6A of that Act. From 1 March 2014 they will also become entitled to a medical scheme fees tax credit and the additional medical expenses tax credit proposed to be inserted in section 6B of that Act. Paragraph 2(4)(d) of the Fourth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, which allows the deduction of contributions to medical schemes when determining the amount of employees’ tax will, therefore, no longer apply from that date and its deletion is proposed. A consequential correction of a reference in paragraph 2(4)(f) is required.

2.13. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 14 of Fourth Schedule

The proposed amendment aligns the relevant provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1962, with that of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, and provides clarity that the imposition of a penalty under paragraph 14(6) of the Fourth Schedule must be in accordance with the procedures referred to in Chapter 15 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

DRAFT

2.14. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 19 of Fourth Schedule

Paragraph (a):

Paragraph 19(1)(a) of the Fourth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1962, provides that a taxpayer (other than a company) should submit an estimate of the total taxable income which will be derived by the taxpayer in respect of the year of assessment for purposes of determining provisional tax liability. “Taxable income” is defined as the amount remaining after deducting from the “income” of any person the deductions allowable under the Act. Income includes a retirement fund lump sum benefit, retirement fund lump sum withdrawal benefit and severance benefit (benefits).

Based on the above, the taxpayer must include these benefits in the total taxable income estimates for purposes of provisional tax, even though these amounts are taxed using separate tax tables and the tax deducted using these tables is final.

It is proposed to exclude these benefits from the estimate of total taxable income, as these benefits are separately taxed.

Paragraph (b):

Paragraph 19(1)(d)(i)(aa) of the Fourth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1962, specifically excludes the taxable portion of any lump sum contemplated in section 7A(4A) of the Act and paragraph (d) of the definition of gross income from the basic amount applicable to any estimate submitted by a provisional taxpayer under this paragraph. However, section 7A(4A) of the Act was deleted with effect from 1 March 2011. It is proposed that the reference to section 7A(4A) be deleted. A severance benefit is covered by paragraph (d) of the definition of gross income.

2.15. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 20 of Fourth Schedule

The proposed amendment aligns the relevant provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1962, with that of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, and provides clarity that the imposition of a penalty under paragraph 20 of the Fourth Schedule must be in accordance with the procedures referred to in Chapter 15 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

Further, paragraph 20(1) of the Fourth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1962, does not provide relief if the actual tax paid is higher than the tax on estimated taxable income. Currently, a penalty may be imposed in some instances where actual tax paid exceeds the tax on the required estimated amount for provisional tax purposes. The reason for this unintended outcome is that payment of employees’ tax and provisional tax paid before the end of the relevant tax year is not properly taken into account in determining the penalty.

Accordingly, a change in the determination of the penalty on the underestimation of provisional tax is proposed. The amendment to the provisional tax understatement penalty rules has the effect that a penalty will be imposed only where the full amount of the tax on the required estimated taxable income is not paid by the end of the tax year. The proposal will eliminate the possibility that an underestimation penalty may be levied if the required provisional tax has been paid.

2.16. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 20A of Fourth Schedule

The proposed amendment aligns the relevant provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1962, with that of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, and provides clarity that the imposition of a penalty under paragraph 20A of the Fourth Schedule must be in accordance with the procedures referred to in Chapter 15 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.17. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 27 of Fourth Schedule

In some instances, the total estimated provisional tax due may be lower than the actual liability upon assessment due to certain deviations between both sets of rules. Under current law, however, a provisional tax penalty may apply solely due to this deviation even if no provisional tax is due. The proposed amendment eliminates this penalty because this deviation does not represent an attempt to undermine the provisional tax.

2.18. Income Tax Act, 1962: Amendment of paragraph 11 of Sixth Schedule

The proposed amendment aligns the relevant provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1962, with that of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, and provides clarity that the imposition of a penalty under paragraph 11 of the Sixth Schedule must be in accordance with the procedures referred to in Chapter 15 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.19. Customs and Excise Act, 1964: Amendment of section 3

Section 3(1) provides for the delegation of any duty imposed or power conferred on the Commissioner to an officer or any other person. In terms of subsection (2)(a), any decision made and any notice or communication signed or issued by such officer or person may be withdrawn or amended by the Commissioner or by the officer or the person concerned. It is arguable that if, for instance, the officer or person is no longer in service, the Commissioner must personally withdraw or amend the decision, notice or communication.

The proposed amendment provides that the decision, notice or communication may also be withdrawn or amended by the officer or person in charge of Customs Operations or Excise Operations.

2.20. Unemployment Insurance Contributions Act, 2002: Amendment of section 10

The reason for the amendment is that employee information to be submitted by employers in terms of section 10(3) is submitted by all employers directly to the Unemployment Insurance Commissioner and not to the Commissioner for SARS. It was agreed with the Unemployment Insurance Commissioner that the relevant database facilitating the employment detail of employees and the calculation of benefits, would be established and maintained by the UIF. The UIF utilises the employee information to establish and maintain an employment record for each registered employee which facilitates the validation and calculation of employee benefits immediately when benefits are claimed. This proposed amendment will align the Unemployment Contributions Act, 2002, with what is done in practice.

2.21. Mineral and Petroleum Resources Royalty (Administration) Act, 2008: Amendment of section 19

Paragraph (a):

In terms of section 19(1), an extractor is duly obliged to submit certain information to the Minister of Finance in the form and manner that the Minister may prescribe, on an annual basis, in respect of a year of assessment. The Minister may in turn disclose any information disclosed under this section to the Commissioner (who carries out the administration of the Mineral and Petroleum Resources Royalty Administration Act).

Paragraph (b):

An extractor will now be required to submit the following additional information to the Minister on an annual basis, in respect of a year of assessment:

- The amounts of the royalty imposed, in terms of the Royalty Act, in respect of refined and unrefined minerals;
- The quantum of earnings before interest and tax calculated per the Royalty Act;
- The amount of the royalty that would have been payable if the gross sales of that extractor (in respect of all mineral resources) does not exceed R10 million during that year;
- The royalty (in respect of all mineral resources) imposed on an extractor if the extractor was not subject to the R100 000 exemption per year of assessment;
- The amount of the royalty that would have been payable if the rollover relief for transfers between extractors, did not apply.

2.22. Taxation Laws Second Amendment Act, 2011: Amendment of section 1

The proposed amendment defers the effective date for the new research and development provisions from 1 April 2012 to 1 October 2012.

2.23. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 1

Paragraph (a):

The proposed definition is inserted in the general definitions as it is also used in other Chapters of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

Paragraph (b):

The proposed amendment aims to include, within the ambit of the definition of a ‘SARS official’, persons from other organs of state whose services are obtained by SARS, for example under section 5(1)(c) of the SARS Act, but with whom no commercial contracts are concluded.

2.24. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 3

Paragraph (a):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to apply the defined term “tax offence” for purposes of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

Paragraph (b):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to remove unnecessary words.

2.25. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 6

The proposed amendment aims to include within the ambit of the definition of a ‘SARS official’ persons from other organs of state whose services are obtained by SARS, for example under section 5(1)(c) of the SARS Act, but with whom no commercial contracts are concluded.

DRAFT

2.26. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 11

The proposed amendment deletes section 11(3) which is a duplication of section 235(3) of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.27. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 14

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to give effect to the general approach in the Tax Administration Act, 2011, that business days are used in the context of time periods other than time periods for payment.

2.28. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 25

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to enhance clarity regarding the source of policy criteria.

2.29. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 29

The Tax Administration Act, 2011, imposes a general record keeping requirement and some tax Acts, in addition, specify what records must be kept. The proposed amendment is to enable the Commissioner to specify, in certain circumstances, what records are specifically required to be kept.

2.30. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 32

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to confirm that records relevant to the investigation by SARS must also be retained by a person until the audit is concluded or the assessment becomes final.

2.31. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 34

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to insert the defined term 'arrangement' in single quotation marks.

2.32. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 46

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to effect consistency regarding the basis of the exercise of a discretion by SARS for an extension of a time period under the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.33. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 49

Paragraph (a):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to enhance clarity regarding which persons may be questioned by SARS during a field audit or investigation.

Paragraph (b):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to ensure photocopying costs may also be claimed by a person where SARS uses the photocopying facilities of that person during a criminal investigation.

DRAFT

2.34. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 61

The proposed amendment gives effect to the notice requirement where the owner or person in control of the premises is not present during a search and seizure by SARS.

2.35. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 63

The proposed amendment gives effect to the notice requirement where the owner or person in control of the premises is not present during a search and seizure by SARS.

2.36. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 71

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to use a more appropriate term.

2.37. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 72

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to apply the defined term “tax offence” for purposes of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.38. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 79

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to include the requirements for an application for a ruling effected by section 15(a) of Act No. 8 of 2010, but omitted in the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.39. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 95

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to provide clarity that a taxpayer may only dispute an assessment based on an estimation as a result of the failure to submit a return, after the relevant return is submitted and a reduced or additional assessment is not issued by SARS.

2.40. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 99

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to enhance clarity regarding the particular assessment in issue.

2.41. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 135

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to clarify that this section only applies to appeals against tax court judgments to the Supreme Court of Appeal.

2.42. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 164

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to enhance clarity.

2.43. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 187

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to ensure the correct application of the interest regime under the Tax Administration Act, 2011, i.e. if a penalty is not paid by the payment date specified in the penalty assessment interest runs from the liability date which is the date of assessment.

2.44. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 198

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to enhance clarity.

2.45. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 211

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to effect a consistent period before each increment of an administrative non-compliance penalty.

2.46. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 217

Paragraph (a):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to remove unnecessary cross-references.

Paragraph (b):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to enhance clarity.

2.47. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 221

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to insert the defined term ‘understatement’ in single quotes.

2.48. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 223

The proposed amendment aims to make it clear that a taxpayer cannot rely upon an opinion regarding the GAAR or the substance over form doctrine unless there has been full disclosure of all steps in or parts of the arrangements (whether or not the taxpayer is a direct party to those steps and arrangements), as well as any other material facts.

2.49. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 224

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to clarify the application of a remedy.

2.50. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 229

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to apply the defined term “tax offence” for purposes of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.51. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 231

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to apply the defined term “tax offence” for purposes of the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

DRAFT

2.52. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 234

Paragraph (a):

See the notes on paragraph 2.55 below. The proposed amendment is a consequential amendment in order to give effect to the first phase of the regulation of tax practitioners.

Paragraph (b):

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to clarify an offence.

2.53. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 235

The proposed amendment is a technical correction.

2.54. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 237

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to clarify that a forged signature cannot be used with the consent and authority of the person whose signature is forged.

2.55. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of heading of Chapter 18

It is proposed that the regulation of tax practitioners be divided into two phases. The first phase will be the compulsory registration of tax practitioners with a recognised controlling body, which is discussed in more detail below. The second phase will be the establishment of an independent regulatory board for tax practitioners. The second phase will begin with a review of the success or otherwise of the first phase eighteen months after its implementation.

The proposed recognised controlling body model is a middle way between a lack of regulation and a statutory regulator, which will leverage existing bodies. It is intended to provide a framework to ensure that tax practitioners are appropriately qualified and that a mechanism is available, both to taxpayers and SARS, to ensure that misconduct is addressed.

This proposal hinges on two requirements. The first is the existing requirement that tax practitioners register with SARS, which was brought into force in 2005. The Tax Administration Act, 2011, already modifies this requirement to provide that a tax practitioner may not be registered if he or she has been removed from a professional body or convicted for a crime involving dishonesty in the preceding five years. The second is a new requirement for all tax practitioners to belong to a recognised tax practitioners' association or fall under the authority of a directly relevant statutory regulator, such as the Independent Regulatory Board for Auditors (IRBA).

SARS would review the minimum qualifications and experience requirements, continuing professional education requirements, codes of ethics and conduct and disciplinary procedures of a professional association seeking recognition. It would ensure that members are required to have knowledge of tax that is kept up to date, are subject to codes of ethics and conduct that are relevant to the tax field and require members to act ethically and professionally and that an effective disciplinary mechanism exists to deal with members who contravene the codes of ethics and conduct.

To ensure sustainability and credibility, associations should have a minimum of 1 000 members upon either application or within a year to cater for new associations. To cater for associations that lack the capacity or willingness to deal with SARS's complaints of members' misconduct adequately, it is proposed that the Minister be empowered to appoint a panel of retired judges or persons of similar stature and competence to hear these complaints on an association's behalf. The costs of the appointment will be borne equally by the association and SARS. A process for revoking an association's recognition if it does not follow through on its commitments is also proposed.

In order to recognise the status of statutory regulators, recognition of the relevant bodies would be automatic.

Finally, the range of misconduct that may be reported by SARS to a professional association or statutory regulator in terms of section 241 of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, the successor to section 105A of the Income Tax Act, 1962, is expanded to cover additional tax specific misconduct.

2.56. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 239

Paragraph (a):

See the notes on paragraph 2.55 above.

Paragraph (b):

The definition of "registered tax practitioner" is used in other Chapters of the Tax Administration Act, 2011, and thus serves as a global definition that should be included in section 1 of the Act.

2.57. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 240

Paragraphs (a), (c) and (d):

The proposed amendments are technical corrections in order to clarify what 'document' is referred to namely a return as defined in the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

Paragraphs (b):

See the notes on paragraph 2.55 above. The proposed amendments are consequential amendments in order to give effect to the first phase of the regulation of tax practitioners.

Paragraph (e):

The proposed amendments clarify that removal from a professional association only bars a person from registering as a tax practitioner if the removal is for serious misconduct and corrects the conjunction between paragraphs (a) and (b).

2.58. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Insertion of section 240A

See the notes on paragraph 2.55 above.

2.59. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 241

See the notes on paragraph 2.55 above.

2.60. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 244

The proposed amendment is a technical correction to give effect to the general approach in the Tax Administration Act, 2011, that business days are used in the context of time periods other than time periods for payment.

DRAFT

2.61. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 246

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to enhance clarity.

2.62. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 250

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to effect the use of the correct term.

2.63. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 252

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to align section 252(a) with section 251(a) of the Tax Administration Bill, 2011.

2.64. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 256

The proposed amendment enables SARS to withdraw a tax clearance certificate from the date that a taxpayer becomes tax non-compliant during the period of validity of the certificate.

2.65. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 257

The proposed amendment enables the Minister to determine by regulation the circumstances when a tax clearance certificate may be required from a person for governmental purposes, for example when tendering for procurement contracts with an organ of state, or issued by SARS, and to prescribe additional procedural requirements for the issue and withdrawal of tax clearance certificates.

2.66. Tax Administration Act, 2011: Amendment of section 269

The proposed amendment is a technical correction in order to apply the transitional rule to electronic communication rules and regulations issued under provisions of the tax Acts repealed by the Tax Administration Act, 2011.

2.67. Short title and commencement

Clause 67 provides for the name and commencement of the proposed Act.

3. CONSULTATION

The amendments proposed by this Bill were published on the websites of National Treasury and SARS for public comment. Comments by interested parties were considered. Accordingly, the general public and institutions at large were consulted in preparing the Bill.

4. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR STATE

An account of the financial implications for the State was given in the 2012 Budget Review.

5. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

- 5.1. The State Law Advisers, South African Revenue Service and National Treasury are of the opinion that this Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, since it contains no provision to which the procedure set out in section 74 or 76 of the Constitution applies.
- 5.2. The State Law Advisers are of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer this Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act. No. 41 of 2003), since it contains no provision pertaining to customary law or customs of traditional communities.
