Vote purpose

Provide strategic advice and support to the Minister of Police. Exercise civilian oversight of the South African Police Service to ensure a transformed and accountable police service that reflects the democratic values and principles of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa.

Mandate

The Civilian Secretariat for the Police Service was established in terms of the Civilian Secretariat for Police Service Act (2011) and section 208 of the Constitution, which provides for the establishment of a civilian secretariat for the police service to function under the direction of the Minister of Police. In terms of the act, the secretariat's mandate is to conduct civilian oversight of the police service and provide policy and strategic support to the minister, including administrative support for international obligations. The act also makes the secretariat responsible for monitoring the South African Police Service's implementation of the Domestic Violence Act (1998).

Expenditure overview

Over the medium term, the department will focus on developing policies and legislation for the police sector; organising events such as imbizos and public participation programmes to enhance community involvement in the fight against crime; and monitoring and evaluating the performance of the police service to ensure its alignment with constitutional obligations, including compliance with legal frameworks such as the Domestic Violence Act (1998). This will further contribute to fostering safer communities, enhancing business confidence, and building a capable, ethical and developmental state.

The department's total expenditure is projected to increase at an average annual rate of 6.8 per cent, from R156 million in 2024/25 to R189.8 million in 2027/28. Given the labour-intensive nature of the department's work, compensation of employees constitutes an estimated 78.7 per cent (R549.9 million) of its budget over the MTEF period. Spending on compensation of employees is set to increase at an average annual rate of 6.6 per cent, from R122.6 million in 2024/25 to R148.5 million in 2027/28, as a result of Cabinet's approval of an additional R30.8 million over the medium term intended to strengthen the department's capacity and provide cost-of-living adjustments.

Developing policies and legislation for the police sector

The department's finalisation of the integrated crime and violence prevention strategy, which entails a whole-of-society approach towards preventing violence and crime, is intended to enhance uniformity, consistency, efficiency and effectiveness within the law enforcement value chain over the period ahead. The strategy, which will be rolled out over the medium term, aims to, among other things, standardise practices arising from the fragmented nature of policing at the national, provincial and local levels.

The implementation of the national policing policy – a collaborative endeavour that invites input from the South African Police Service's management, provincial executives and ministerial structures within the justice, crime prevention and security cluster – will also be prioritised over the period ahead. The successful adoption and execution of this policy is expected to enhance the professionalism and quality of policing services nationwide. Among the policy's objectives is the establishment of a police service rooted in community-centred and rights-based approaches, supported by an effective institutional and oversight framework to ensure accountability.

The department expects 5 bills to be finalised over the period ahead: the South African Police Service Amendment Bill, the Stock Theft Amendment Bill, the Firearms Control Amendment Bill, the Second-hand Goods Amendment Bill, and the Civilian Secretariat for Police Service Amendment Bill.

Work for these initiatives is funded through the Legislation and Policy Development programme's allocation of R85.9 million over the next 3 years.

Fostering community involvement in fighting crime

In addition to conducting 3 targeted anti-crime campaigns per year over the next 3 years and a campaign to improve the department's visibility and promote its work, the department plans to facilitate 24 imbizos and public participation programmes in municipalities to raise community awareness of crime prevention strategies. These initiatives will focus on promoting community policing and local government safety forums, and evaluating the functionality of community policing forums. The department also intends to host 12 capacity-building workshops with stakeholders over the period ahead to strengthen collaboration and effectiveness in crime prevention. These activities will be carried out in the Intersectoral Coordination and Strategic Partnerships programme, which has a budget of R95.6 million over the medium term.

Monitoring and evaluating the police service's performance

In its commitment to improving the management of gender-based violence cases, the department plans to compile 2 reports per year over the medium term to evaluate the South African Police Service's compliance with the Domestic Violence Act (1998). To further promote transformation, accountability and professionalism within the police service, the department aims to produce 3 reports per year over the MTEF period. The reports will focus on the police service's handling of complaints, its implementation of the Independent Police Investigative Directorate's recommendations and an assessment of police integrity. These initiatives are funded through the Civilian Oversight, Monitoring and Evaluations programme, which is allocated R119.4 million over the period ahead.
