

Introduction

The purpose of the Estimates of National Expenditure (ENE) is to provide a tool to enhance the accountability of the executive to Parliament and civil society, and to allow for the review and monitoring of government's service delivery and spending plans. By providing information that links service delivery to budgets, the ENE deepens the quality of trusteeship exercised over public funds allocated for government programmes.

In keeping with ongoing improvements to the way that public finances are managed and reported, changes have been made to the format of the 2007 ENE. Complementing the information on policy developments, service delivery objectives and targets – alongside three-year spending estimates - several chapters now also include the outcomes or desired results that government programmes will achieve.

Policy choices inform budgets

Medium-term budgeting is more than just numbers – it is about policy prioritisation, planning and reaching agreement on spending plans that support government's objectives.

Each year government undertakes a review of policy priorities and key spending programmes. This review, or budget process as it is commonly known, begins with the Minister of Finance inviting his Cabinet colleagues to present to the Ministers' Committee on the Budget (MinComBud¹) an overview of policy priorities that may need to be accommodated in the next MTEF. Following careful examination of budget proposals by Treasury budget analysts, and extensive consultation with departments and intergovernmental forums, a spending plan for the next three years is proposed to Cabinet. The budget process is run alongside the review of government's economic forecasts and fiscal policy, and is guided by the political oversight of the Ministers' Committee on the Budget.

Outcomes

To improve information on the link between the objectives of government and policy developments in departments, a number of chapters in the 2007 ENE provide a brief discussion on outcomes or the desired results to be achieved.

Outcomes refer to the impact or consequences that government programmes have on society. In other words, outcomes represent the likely or achieved short-term and medium term effects of the outputs delivered or produced. Some outcomes with their corresponding outputs, taken from chapters in the ENE, are illustrated in the table below:

Outcomes	Outputs
Poverty alleviation	Social assistance progressive realisation plan Land acquired for sustainable human settlement, and for industrial and economic development Short-term jobs offered by the expanded public works programme Reliable and sustainable supply of water provided for basic use and economic development
Economic growth and job creation	National freight information system operational by March 2008 New regulations for registering private FET institutions Rehabilitation of electricity infrastructure to improve quality of supply Establishment of indigenous knowledge systems research laboratories Increased regional intra-Africa trade and successful technical and business missions

The impact that programme outputs have on society (outcomes) also plays a significant role in government's decision to allocate additional resources for public programmes.

Additional allocations

The budget process that started soon after the tabling of the 2006 Budget, resulted in the allocation of an additional R89,5 billion to government programmes to take forward key priorities over the next three years. The revised national budget framework provides for total additional spending by national departments of R7,3 billion in 2007/08, R8,4 billion in 2008/09 and R16,5 billion in 2009/10.

A summary of additional funding to national departments, including the adjustments made to provincial and local conditional grants, is provided here:

Central government and financial and administrative services

The Department of Foreign Affairs receives an additional R1,6 billion, of which R909 million takes into account foreign exchange adjustments due to the depreciation of the currency. South Africa's continued involvement in Africa is supported by a further allocation of R275 million for the African Renaissance Fund and R151 million for the African agenda.

The increase to the budget of the Department of Home Affairs totals R1,1 billion, which includes allocations of R113 million and R37 million to the Independent Electoral Commission and the Film and Publication Board, respectively. Of the total allocation to the department, R600 million is conditional on the approval of a service delivery improvement plan.

Of the total addition of R485 million to the Department of Provincial and Local Government, R400 million is added to the municipal infrastructure grant in 2007/08. The balance of R85 million will be allocated to various commissions and boards, the cities network, and for the improved co-ordination of disaster management.

The budget of the Department of Public Works is augmented by a further R764 million, of which R380 million will go towards critical maintenance and upgrading border posts, and R125 million to improve the department's capacity to manage the expanded public works programme. Smaller amounts totalling R259 million are allocated for human resources and IT capacity, and support to the construction industry.

The grants for provincial infrastructure, located in the budget of the National Treasury, are increased by R4,3 billion over the next three years. The transfer to the South African Revenue Service (SARS) is increased by R1,3 billion mainly for customs modernisation and the purchase of container scanners. A new capacity building initiative in municipalities – Siyenza Manje – will receive an initial allocation of R741 million over the next three years.

Statistics SA is allocated an additional R730 million, of which R230 million will support the labour and employment survey, and R340 million goes towards the population dynamics survey. The balance of R160 million will contribute to capacity and infrastructure for various surveys and preparations for the next census.

Social Services

The largest of the revisions in the social services cluster, totalling R4,6 billion, is made to the Department of Education. Part of this addition makes provision for an increase of R2,2 billion to the higher education subsidy, which now grows at an annual average rate of over 11 per cent over the next three years. R700 million is recommended for teacher training bursaries over the next three years, and R850 million to accelerate the adult literacy programme.

The social worker scholarship scheme administered by the Department of Social Development receives an additional R365 million. The department also receives a baseline increase to improve policy implementation, and an adjustment of R110 million to the South African Social Security Agency for the capital and operational costs of the management information system.

On top of the R600 million in the 2006 Adjustments Estimates of National Expenditure for 2010 FIFA World Cup stadiums, the Department of Sports and Recreation receives an additional R7,8 billion, which will be awarded to host cities in the form of a local government conditional grant, subject to the provisions that will be contained in the 2007 Division of Revenue Bill.

Justice, Crime Prevention and Security Services

The security cluster departments receive additional funds totalling R7,6 billion, and an amount of R5,1 billion that is reprioritised within the cluster. Total reprioritised funds amount to R6,2 billion from the baseline of the Department of Correctional Services, of which R2,8 billion is rescheduled in the department's baseline.

Reprioritised funds from the Department of Correctional Services

Total available for reprioritisation	R6,157 billion
Reprioritised within DCS	R2,767 billion
Reallocated within the JCPS cluster	R2,345 billion
Reallocated outside the cluster	R1,045 billion

The Department of Defence receives the largest portion of additional funding within the justice, crime prevention and security cluster totalling R6,2 billion to sustain its general modernisation programme and also to provide further support for military skills training and recruitment. An amount of R2 billion compensates the department for upward revisions to foreign exchange projections that relate to the strategic arms procurement programme.

The capacity of the Department of Safety and Security to sustain recruitment levels, train new police and civilian staff, and improve working conditions is supported with an additional allocation of R1,1 billion, alongside an additional R665 million to ensure adequate and appropriate policing during the 2010 FIFA World Cup. Improved capacity for effective policing in the form of infrastructure and maintenance, and a vehicle deployment system receives R556 million over the next three years.

R473 million in 2007/08, R635 million in 2008/09 and R836 million in 2009/10 is added to the baseline of the Department of Justice and Constitutional Development to improve capacity and further support the department's ability to reduce case backlogs. Of this amount, R270 million is earmarked to improve the capacity of the Special Investigations Unit and the Legal Aid Board. Over the next three years the department is allocated R277 million towards the modernisation of the justice system.

Economic Services

The Department of Science and Technology receives additional funding of R1,2 billion. This includes government's 10 per cent commitment in support of the international bid for the Square Kilometre Array telescope, which receives a total of R500 million by 2009/10. Additional funding to Science and Technology also increases the transfers to several science institutions in support of training in science and engineering, and innovation and research.

An amount of R933 million is proposed for the recapitalisation of Denel in 2007/08, which follows an amount of R567 million included in the 2006/07 adjustments budget for the entity.

The Department of Trade and Industry receives an additional R1,7 billion, of which R300 million will support the film and TV incentive scheme. Support for small enterprises is provided through an increase in transfers to Khula Enterprise Finance and the Small Enterprise Development Agency (SEDA) of R105 million and R150 million, respectively, over the MTEF period.

Various adjustments are also made to the baselines of the departments of Agriculture, Communications and Environmental Affairs. These revisions include support for Sentech's digitisation project.

Urban development and planning

The Department of Minerals and Energy receives a total increase of R1,7 billion over the MTEF period, of which R1 billion is designated as an increase for the electrification programme.

The integrated housing and human settlements grant is increased by R2,7 billion over the next three years. This will enable the Department of Housing to sustain the rollout of two pilot housing projects – N2 Gateway and Soweto on Sea. Provision is also made in the new funding to make inflation linked adjustments to the housing subsidy and to address the problem of blocked housing projects.

The additional allocation to the Department of Transport totals R12,4 billion. Of this amount, transfers to the South African Rail Commuter Corporation (SARCC) and the South African National Roads Agency Limited (SANRAL) are increased over the MTEF period by R1,9 billion and R1,5 billion respectively. These adjustments increase the total transfer to the SARCC to R4 billion in 2007/08, rising to R6,2 billion in 2009/10. The transfer to the National Roads Agency totals R3,4 billion in 2007/08, rising to R5,5 billion in 2009/10.

The additional funding to the department also provides for an increase of R4,3 billion to the public transport infrastructure and systems grant and the national contribution to the Gautrain Rapid Rail Link project.

The Department of Water Affairs and Forestry receives a total budget increase of R3,2 billion, of which R2,1 billion is earmarked for sanitation and waste disposal infrastructure projects.

Overview of expenditure

The main budget provides for total expenditure of R533,9 billion in 2007/08, increasing to R650,3 billion in 2009/10. Real non-interest expenditure grows strongly at a rate of 7,7 per cent over the MTEF period. The estimates also include a contingency reserve to deal with unforeseen circumstances. This provides for allocations that may be voted in the Adjusted Estimates of National Expenditure later in the year to provide for expenditure that is currently unforeseen and that is unavoidable. In subsequent budgets, any unused funds in the contingency reserve may be drawn down to accommodate adverse macroeconomic developments, make funds available following natural or other disasters, or respond to any new government priorities.

How all these funds are allocated is detailed in the pages of this publication, with a consolidated account provided in the summary tables.
